

- 📅 Don't procrastinate. The stress of thinking about what needs to be done, is never more beneficial than just getting it done.
- 📅 Hurricane season. Are you prepared? I'm not near the coast, but do feel that I should be more prepared than I am.
- 📅 You are capable, you can do it, never be afraid to ask for help.
- 📅 Before the cold weather starts, turn all of your cold weather clothes hangers in the opposite direction. Then when you wear them, reverse the hanger. At the end of the season you will have a really clear view of what you wear and what you don't; making it easier to purge the items you haven't worn through the entire season.
- 📅 As long as you spend 1 minute per day toward your goal, you are headed in the right direction.
- 📅 Routines are not only important for children; they're also great for pets and adults.
- 📅 There are good people in the world. There are people who are happy to help. Ask for it.
- 📅 It's Friday the 13th...what superstitions freak you out?
- 📅 If you were told you had 1 hour of free time with a team of organizers to clear out a space, what space would you work in? Think in that manner and that will help you determine where to start as sometimes just getting started is some folks sticking point.
- 📅 Before starting your organizing project, be sure to have plenty of bags and boxes on hand. This will make it easier to contain the trash and donations. You wouldn't want to run out of them and have to stop when you get on a roll.
- 📅 Do you have a collection you no longer enjoy collecting, but it's still sitting around taking up precious space in your home? Allow yourself to get rid of it. Either pass it on to someone who really enjoys it, sell it, or donate it. Don't let the guilt of money spent keep you from letting it go.
- 📅 I love Sarah Knight's way of making me rethink things. In her book "Get Your Sh*t Together," she says..."(that) 'hard' is subjective, but 'too hard' is just another way of saying 'I quit before I even tried.'" Gotta love it!
- 📅 Just because there are 24 hours in a day doesn't mean every last second needs to be booked. Be sure to leave yourself and your family time to recharge.
- 📅 Just because you're nervous about something doesn't mean you should put it off. Schedule it, book it, do it. Get it off your plate and off your mind.

-  When you are asked to a meeting or invited to an event, if at all possible, accept or decline right then and there. Delaying your response just requires extra "to-do's" on your part by having to remember to respond and then actually calling, texting or emailing your response.
-  When was the last time you changed your toothbrush? Buy a family pack and switch out everyone's in the house. Your health will thank you for it.
-  "The space in which we live should be for the person we are becoming now, not for the person we were in the past." -- Marie Kondo in "The Life-Changing Magic of Tidying Up"

I couldn't agree more! Don't hold onto things just because you used to enjoy them. If you no longer enjoy embroidery or woodworking, don't hold onto all of the tools and supplies just because you spent a lot of money or used to love it. If it's not who you are now, don't guilt yourself into keeping it.
-  It is very important that each thing in your house has a home. If an item does not have a location where it belongs and/or it never gets placed there, then it becomes clutter. If you want to keep an item, it needs to have a place and it needs to be put there each time you are done using it.
-  Do you have boots for the upcoming colder weather? Check now before it's here and stock is unavailable locally and quickly.
